ICACSDF 2026

Special Session 16 - Explainable Artificial Intelligence-based Frameworks for Image Manipulation Detection in Digital Forensics

OVERVIEW

This session will include attention mechanisms and transformer-based deep learning models that effectively detects subtle artifacts introduced by image tampering, such as deepfakes, splicing, copy-move attacks, and AI-generated synthetic content. In addition, a key emphasis will be placed on explainability to ensure that model decisions are interpretable, transparent, and trustworthy for forensic and legal applications.

TOPICS OF INTEREST (BUT NOT LIMITED TO)

- Deepfake generation and detection techniques
- Detection and prevention of deepfake-based cyber threats
- AI-driven cybersecurity and threat intelligence
- Deepfakes in phishing, identity fraud, and social engineering
- Digital trust, misinformation, and societal impact
- Explainable AI (XAI) in deepfake detection
- Human-centered cybersecurity and usability
- Cognitive aspects of deception and user behavior
- Ethical, legal, and regulatory challenges of synthetic media
- Deepfakes in critical domains (healthcare, education, governance)
